

For your information.

PATH (Parents As Teacher Helpers) supports the school in achieving the school goals to provide a holistic education for the students. We stand by the School Motto and embrace the School Core Values through incorporating the School Motto and Core Values in our Code of Conduct.

Compassion – Care and Service

- We practice collaboration, love and care when volunteering in school and all PATH events, programmes and activities.
- We value every child as our own and support school programmes, regardless of whether our own children are participating in these programmes.
- We build a positive culture of appreciation, volunteerism and partnership by working closely and amicably with the school staff and other PATH members.
- We seek to be an active partner of the school and supports the school with a positive voice.

Conscience – Resilience and Excellence

- We treat every volunteering duty as a learning opportunity for ourselves.
- We maintain open communication and work closely with the School, PATH EXCO and fellow members to resolve any differences, difficulties or challenges that we may encounter.
- We will be committed to give our best when participating in school programmes.

Purity – Confidence and Integrity

- We conduct ourselves through modelling good behaviour and observe appropriate protocols in the school and when representing the school and PATH in public events.
- We uphold the good name of the school and PATH and will request for prior written approval of the school and PATH EXCO before communicating or making any transaction with external parties.
- We have no vested interest in volunteering our service to the school and will avoid any conflict of interest in our dealing with the school and fellow PATH members.

Righteousness – Respect and Teamwork

- We respect the school leaders, teachers and other school staff, obey the school rules and regulations, and recognize that the school always puts the well-being and interest of the students as the key priority.
- We respect all individuals and recognize that different individuals may have differing views and regard that the decision made by the school in such situations is final and in the best interest of the parties involved.
- We commit not to reveal any confidential information pertaining to students and parents to others.
- We will communicate to the school leaders or school liaisons and PATH EXCO directly on any feedback or concerns about school programmes or operations.
- We place group interest above self and emphasize that teamwork is essential to the success of PATH.
